FinTech Activities and Impact of COVID-19: specific concerns and challenges from a deposit insurance perspective

The increasing use of FinTech in developing and marketing deposit-like products poses serious questions for deposit insurers: Will bank risk profiles increase or decline? What happens if a non-bank e-money or e-wallet provider fails? What recourse do consumers have when a third-party platform used to provide traditional banking services shuts down or fails, and how can customers be protected? In this seminar, we will focus on some of these concerns from a deposit insurance perspective.
