The IADI Annual Conference was titled “Updated Core Principles to Strengthen the Financial Stability Architecture”, during which the approval for the revised Core Principles was successfully gained from IADI Executive Council and announced at the Annual General Meeting.

Mr. Jwala Rambarran, Governor of the Central Bank of Trinidad and Tobago and Chairman of Deposit Insurance Corporation of Trinidad and Tobago welcomed the participants to the Conference. He discussed the advancement of recently introduced regulatory reform packages aimed at greater stability of financial systems, based on stronger capital and liquidity requirements, tougher supervision and reduction of risks posed by financial institutions. Mr. Rambarran also noted the importance of strong relationships between all those involved in achieving such objectives.

Mr. Jerzy Pruski, in his keynote speech, pointed to the importance of harmonization of standard setters’ efforts in underpinning stability of financial systems. He highlighted IADI’s contribution to that effort stating: "Guided by the updated set of IADI Core Principles, which outline critical design features of deposit insurance systems, deposit insurers continue to play a vital role in achieving and maintaining depositor confidence and financial stability."

The Conference focused on the Core Principles updates, which strengthen the deposit insurance standards in several areas including coverage, funding and governance, adding more guidance on the deposit insurer’s role in crisis preparedness and management and reflecting the greater role played by many deposit insurers in resolution regimes. It also highlighted challenges associated with applying the updated Core Principles to different mandates, settings and structures.

Keynote speakers were Ms. Christine Cumming (Federal Reserve Bank of New York), who spoke on the responsibilities of deposit insurers in Crisis Management and Crisis Preparedness, Mr. Thomas M.
